

foster child has voiced that he wants to know his mother better even if he cannot live with her. I have also started working with the biological mother to help her find stable housing, employment, and other resources to meet her basic needs. 4.2 - I started to gather research from Omni Resource Coordinators to understand what areas of foster care they feel they need more training. I started taking polls in team meetings to get an idea of what areas to include in my special project. Some of the main areas so far include therapeutic visitations and TFTC interventions. I will continue to gather more research in other team meetings before deciding on the training curriculum. 6.2 - I engaged with therapy clients during sessions and assessments this week. I provided supportive therapy through a person-in-environment perspective. I have learned that research states the rapport and connection of the therapist-client bond is one of the most influential parts of the client's treatment. I continue to build rapport and provide a safe space for clients to share their vulnerabilities and problems.
