2.2: This week I struggled with this one a little bit. During the bio-psycho-social assessment with a patient. The questions were asked about using drugs and what brought them into the hospital. With the experience I have with also working at a mental health hospital, you start to see trends and develop certain biases. I have seen a lot of patients that are med-seeking and sometimes not necessarily there for the right reasons. So during the assessment, my mind would sometimes wander off to those biases. However, I reminded myself that everyone is different. Although I heard certain responses, I was able to separate that from my biases, and really observe how the patient was reacting/responding and looking deeper on the perhaps bigger issue to the reason that brought him in.
