Body of Release:

The Sunday Afternoon BBQ is sponsored by Ridgeview Healthcare, Southern Adventist University, and Anderson County Parks and Recreation. Proceeds will go to support RightWay Recovery clients to help afford necessities such as housing, food, and clothing. Registration for the event is free, but there will be vendors selling food, crafts, and other goods.

The event will be held from 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm. The executive director of RightWay Recovery, Alan Parker, will address the audience and discuss the purpose of RightWay Recovery. The event will consist of games such as cornhole and giant Jenga that will be free of charge. There will also be a chili cook-off and eating contest, and participants can register for a small fee prior to the event. Prizes will be announced at the event. Vegetarian options will be available. We only ask that you do not bring alcohol since we are encouraging an environment of recovery and sobriety for our clients.

The goal of this BBQ is to inform the community of the purpose of RightWay Recovery and to show that sobriety can be fun as well! We would like to partner with the community to provide an environment of recovery for individuals who are suffering with substance abuse issues and co-occurring disorders. There will be a RightWay Recovery booth at the event for individuals to obtain more information.
